In Love With A Southern Street King

Synopsis

Angel Harrington is the definition of an independent woman. She has a level head and grounded spirit. She never looked for a man to take care of her, even after meeting and falling in love with Saint Phillips, who started as just a corner boy for her father's drug empire. The two spent many years together until her father's death and his rise as the next in command tore them apart. Still heartbroken over how they ended, she has a problem with trust and commitment when it comes to Saint or any other man that comes her way. When she learns of something that could upset the empire that Saint has worked so hard to maintain, and with her father's blood, sweat and tears in it, she has to choose whether to ride or let their opportunity for a second chance between them die. Saint Phillips is the CEO of King's Playhouse, Atlanta's most popular new strip club. He's happy that he has found another way to clean his illegal revenue, but heavy is the head that wears the crown. When his empire is tested, he'll have to rely on his power to settle a war that's brewing in the streets all while appearing to remain knee deep in making the Playhouse a success. Reese and Omari Grant are the definition of a true power couple. He's part owner of the King's Playhouse and she's a certified nurse midwife. They were high school sweethearts and have been together for seven years. She believes that the two of them are soulmates and are living their happily ever after, but when Omari begins to struggle with the seven-year itch, a strong whiff of temptation could ruin their happy home for good. Things come crashing down all around them when Reese learns he's not the man she's made him out to be. Sierra Gray was born poor and refuses to die that way. As the premier dancer at King's Playhouse, she doesn't have a problem using what she has to get what she needs. When she's roped into a deal with a devil from her past, she devises her own plan to keep herself fit in Gucci and Gold forever, but who will she bring down in order to lift herself up? In a business where sex, money and greed rule everything around them, everybody's out for something. Will they sell their souls for the almighty dollar or walk away with something more valuable, love?

This book was a nice steady read... It grabbed my attention and kept me interested the whole time... Men just can't be faithful no matter what.. This book did get me in my feelings a few times... I really like Angel I really hate that no matter what she just can't seem to move on... Saint just can't seem to get it together and leave the streets alone... Now with Omari and Reese this just seems like a wonderful marriage.... Both have been tempted and have been able to stand strong with being faithful. .. Or have they... You know they always say that the grass is not greener on the other side. .. In this case it is really true... Now this Sierra lady... I really can't stand she is just so sneaky and changing people's lives but not for the good... Now we have so many people caught up in a tough situation with all her lies and deception ... How will this all end for everyone. .. Waiting for part 2...

This was such a good read!..these stripper chicks Do Not knw how to say n their lanes..all the drama tht she bout to cause..smdh..as soon as Puget n2 the book it's ova..tht just how fast paced this book it..I njoyed it from beginning to end....waitin on pt2!!.... '• '• '• '• '•

Well this book was just ok for me there were a couple errors but I could still understand and read the book fully. I really didn't understand why Angel would try to change Saint she was with him for 5 years and knew this was him so to think he would do a 180 was crazy. Omari was dumb as he could be he realize that the grass ain't always greener on the other side but, he about to see just how good he once had it will never be the same again all for a woman on the come up. Saint and Omari now have to deal with the possibility of a baby but, they don't know a third man is involved and he out to take Saint out. Saint will be in for a shocker when he realize who's helping Trent to take him out.

Okay, what a very interesting read. I enjoyed and and it held my interest from beginning to end. I was a bit disappointed thou in Omari and Saint. I really thought they had a little more sense than that to be caught up with a stripper. One who works in their club at that. And Saint, what kinda kingpin is he to let Trent go? Like really? Some parts had me really shaking my head. Great job otherwise....awaiting part two.

Angel really touched my nerves. How can you be with someone for 5 years knowing what they were from jump and then flip. He was groomed to take over the business from the beginning. Sierra smelled like a gold digger and Omari fell for it. Reese caught the short end of the deal. Omari see how he really messed up what he had. Trent came out of nowhere and they should have handled him right then.

I like this story because it realistic. And I like that she is in love with him but not immediately jumping in his arms. I hope they eventually get together though. Well this story is well written. It entertaining and fill with some action. I'm looking forward to book 2 in this series.
